To the Editors of the Federal Gazette, A friend in Washington has turnished me with the inclosed translations of diple matic papers now in circulation at that city. with liberty of giving them publicity here you may, if agreeable, insert them in your useful paper.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Baltimore, 23d January, 1806.

A translation from the French of the Mar quis de Gasa Yrujo's circular, addressed to the different foreign ministers accredit. ed near the United States.

Philadelphia, January 21, 1806.

The want of correctness which appears to prevail throughout the article, relative to Spain, of the message which the presi. dent of the United States sent to congress on the 3d instant, compelled me to transmit on the 6th of said month, to the secretary of state, the note of which I have the honor of inclosing to you a translated copy, The extreme publicity given to said mes--sage, as well as to the documents relative to the above-mentioned article, sent to Congress some time after, caused me to hope that government, from the ostensible purity of its intentions, would also have published my note, as its publication would have tended to present the affairs in question under their true point of view. have been waiting in silence for more than forty days in expectation of this act of jusrice, but I have waited for it in vain; and as no hopes any longer remain of seeing it verified, I have thought it my duty sir, to transmit you a copy of this document, for the information of your court, with the object, that whatever may have been the light under which the president of the United States may have thought proper to present the conduct of Spain, it may be known that the king my master, in his political relations with the United States, has always manifested that good faith, so well known, which is the true character of his govern. ment, acting towards them always with justice, and very often with generosity.

Accept, sir, the sentiments of my high consideration, with which I have the honor to-be, your most obedient humble servant.

(Signed) THE MARQUIS OF CASA YRUIO. P. S. I authorise you, sir, to give copies not only of my note, but even of the present letter.

> TRANSLATION. Philadelphia, 6th December, 1805.

SIR, The zeal with which I have endeavored to preserve the harmony and good understanding between Spain and the United States, has caused me to read with particular regret, the article of the president's message, sent to congress the Sd instant, respecting the political relations between the United States and the king my master. As in the exposition to which I allude, there exist in my opinion several mistakes of a delicate and important tendency, al. tho' I render to the president due justice, in regard to the motives which may have caused this apparent want of correctness, yet my character, imposes on me the task of entering into an examination of some of his assertions, and of demonstrating that either from the want of exact information, or owing to defective translations, they appear in some cases not altogether cor. rect.

In the article of the presidents message relative to Spain, after maintaining that the negociations for the settlement of the existing differences had not had a satisfactory issue be says?

" Speilations during the former war, for which she had formerly acknowledged herself responsible, have been refused to be compensated, but on conditions effecting other claims, in no wise connected with them. Yet the same practices are renewed in the present war, and are already of great amount." It is very well known that in a state of war, there exists and will probably ever exist, a certain abuse of force confided to sub. altern hands. Even the United States themselves have not been an exception to this general rule, and during the short period of hostilities with France, in the year seventeen hundred and ninety eight, not. withstanding no privateers were armed and that their protecting forces consisted only of a small number of frigates neutrals experienced from them many injuries, well authenticated by the numerous claims on this government by the injured powers, principally on the part of Denmark and Sweden.

Probably there might have existed last war some abuses of this nature, although very rare on the part of the royal at vy of of Spain, but the king my master animated by that love of justice which characterises him, authorised his principal secretary of state to sign a convention with the American minister near his person, in which were stipulated reciprocal compensations for damages and injuries their respective sub jects and citizens might have sustained from officers or individuals of either, contrary to the right and laws of nations. This stipulation similar to that of the same nature in the treaty of friendship, navigation and limits, concluded in seventeen hundred and ninety five, and scrupulously complied with by my sovereign, would now have had the same effect by the ratification of the convention, had not an article been inserted therein tending to impose on Spain the obligation of a responsibility both detrimental and important in its results, as well as unsupported by reason and justice under existing circumstanc-

My court has in a direct manner as well as through me, repeatedly, manifested to the American government its readiness to carry the said supulation into effect, whenever the article in the same convention relative to the above mentioned responsibility, should either be suppressed or altered in a manner more conformable to justice, and has been so far from refusing to satisfy said compensations on account of other claims in no wise connected with them, that it was precisely because they are connected that the said convention has not been carried into effect, as was and still is the wish of it e king my master.

It is true that the two subjects by their nature are not connected with each other in themselves, bat it is also true, that this connection is very great, when we consider that an endeavor is made to form out of these two things, distinct in themselves, component parts of the same whole; thereby placing the king, my master, under the disagreeable dilemma of either refusing to ratify a stipulation which he conceives to be just, and therefore wishes to fulfil, or else of taking on himself a responsibility, mere or less direct, in favor of the United States to which it is well proved they have no right to pretend.

In regard to what concerns the new spo. liations, I can assure you, sir, few are those that can strictly merit this denomina. tion on the part of Spanish vessels, as many of the captures, which so frequently from acts of contraband, or from a want of having on board the documents required by the treaty of 1795, or even from other circumstances which the captains and owners of said prizes will take good care to conceal; besides, on this head, the citizens of the United States would receive that justice which they have already experienced on the same subject, in virtue of the treaty of 1795 I cannot but observe, that although I had the honor of communicating to you, sir, two months ago, that the strictest injunctions had been given by the king, my master, not to interrupt the navigation of the American citizens, when employed in lawful trade, no mention is made by the president of this circumstance, as highly important in its effects towards the American commerce, as it is necessary to demonstrate his just and pacific inter-

Without any view to recrimination, I find it necessary to observe, that although ther than against the terms in which it is conthe violations of the rights of neutrals are infinitely more frequent and extensive on the part of England, whose vessels of the cording to this, the polition taken by the preliroyal navy have almost continually blockaded the ports of the United States, and what is more, when this power daily establishes new principles on the rights of neutrals, which, in reality, tend to undermine and annihilate them-the name of Great Britain is no where to be found in the columns of the president's message.

not authorize any animadversions on my retrocession of Louisiana would of course render part were it not for a most essen ial one necessary; or elle it might proceed from the cir. which immediately affects the interests of cumstance of Spain's being engaged in a war with the king my master-I allude to the many thousand American sailors violently forced from the shelter of the flag which ought to protect them, and compelled to fight on board of British ships of war, against the subjects of the king, my master. I cannot but call the attention of the government of the United States towards such a conduct, that in their wisdom, they may adopt the necessary measures to correct an abuse which at the same time that it violates their neutrality is extremely prejudicial to

The president adds, ' On the Mobile, our commerce passing through that river continues to be obstructed by military duties and vexatious researches.' Altho' this assertion is not accompanied by any obser- as nojult as they are impolinic.

vation whatever, which might cause it to be viewed as a national offence. I must ob. serve, that according to my information, the duties on imposts and exports are very moderate only 6 per cent, * that every pow. er has a right to regulate as they please these objects within the boundaries of their jurisdiction, and this exercise of sovereignsy is practised by the American government at Fort Stoddert; that is, within their lines, without any pretensions on the part of Spain to interfere in their regulations. But even admitting it may be troublesome, it never surely can be pretended it is neither proved, nor do I think is p fice to as a national offence.

He afterwards says-" Propositions for adjusting amicably the boundaries of Louisiana have not been acceded to." This assertion is not strictly correct; for it is, and always has been the wish as well as the intention of Spain, to adjust amicably the limis of Louisiana; but however friendly (amicable) may have been her disposition towards it, she cannot sacrifice thereto either the dignity or rights of her crown; so that it was not, as the president supposes owing to the want of a desire of adjusting amicably, that this business was not concluded; but rather from the nature of the proposals, which were in themselves inadmissible. The paragraph continues " While the right is unsettled, we have a voided to change the state of things, by taking new posts, or strengthening ourselves in the disputed territories, in the hope that the other power would not, by a contrary conduct, oblige us to meet their example, and endanger conflicts of authority, the issue of which may not easily be controuled; but in this hope we have now reason to lessen our confidence."

In truth, I cannot comprehend what the prefident can call unfettied right; and fill lefs, if he withes to apply it to that part of West Florida comprehended within the Miffiffippi, Ibervilles, t etakes, and the river Perdido. The right of this tecritory cannot be confidered as unfettled or doubtful; for independent of that right arifing from actual possession and from the treaty of retrocession of Louisiana to France, there is ano ther conclusive circumstance, well known to the American government, which ought and must diffipate every doubt, if any could ever exist on this furject. The most distinguished civilians a. gree, that the true interpreters of a treaty, doubtful in any of its clauses or expressions, are the contracting parties themselves, when this can be obtained. Spain and France, who were the contracting parties in the tieary of retroceffion, on which is founded that of fale, of the 30th of April, from whence the pretentions of the American government emanate, have explained it in the manner already known to you, sir; namely, that it was not the intention of Spain to cede to and truth, altho' in a curfory manner, westerd France more than the had received from her, as the title and word retroceffion made use of there. in, clearly imply; and that France never would have pretended or hoped to obtain one inch of land east of the Miffifippi, Iberville, and the Lakes. The true intention of the contracting parties being thus expressly manifelled, I shall content myfelf by copying a fingle paragraph from Vattel, among many other fimilar ones which I could produce from other civilians, in fupport of the rights of the king, my matter on this subject. In paragraph 274 of " The In terpretation of Treaties," Vattal fays ... " When we manifeftly fee what is the fente that agrees with the intention of the contracting powers, it is not permitted to turn their words to a contra ry meaning. The intention fufficiently known furnish s the true matter of the convention, of what is promifed and accepted, demanded and granted. To violate the treaty, is to go contary to the intention fufficiently manifelled, raceivel; for the terms are nothing without the intentions throughout to dictate them." Ac. dent, in the faid paragraph of his meffage, that the right (no doubt alluding to the territorial right) was doubtful or unfettled, is inadmiffible. and of course all the inductions and configuences he draws from this supposition, fall completely to the gr u d. B fides, whatever alteration or change might have taken place in the territories of his Catholic majesty could never have been, as I have had the honor to inform you, fir, but The circumstances in themselves would the cff cts of a new plan of frontiers, Chich the England, but never with a view to disturb the > * North - It is necessary to remark that the navigation of the Mobille, which appears to fur. nith the prefident a motive of complaint, is enjayed by the Americans, in confequence of a gracious indulgence on the part of Spain; las no right does yet exist, to navigate the waters of that river within the boundaries of Spain, who holds exclusively that right grounded on fove reign poffession, on the opinions of the most celebrated civilians, and supported by the very principles established by the American govern. ment, through the medium of their attorney ge. neral, Bradford, in the case of the prize Grange, then on the waters of the river Delaware. Af. ter this, it is necessary to confess, that the animadvertions of the prefident upon this head are nd good understanding betwiet Spain and the United States.

The prefident continues faying "intoads bare recently been made into the territories of Or. leage and the M fillippi; cur entrens have been ferzed and their property plundered in the very parts of the former, which had been actually to livered up by Spain, and this by the regule officers and foldiers of that government."

Although I have not on this ful jedt more in formation than that received thre' the American newspapers, whose accounts cannor be supposed very impartial, nevertheless supposing them con rect in all their extent, from those I have recy believe, that the officers and foldiers of the king my matter, have croffed the American lice, the commit within the jurisdiction of the U. States the pretended infults. The first example of their insoads was given by feveral American citizens. who, in August, 1804, penetrated through the territory of Baton Rouge and aided by the bro. ther Kempers, and other malcontents of the Spanift fide, made an attempt to furprife and render themselves mafters of the fort of Buton Rouge, and actually arrefted fome magifine and other persons of note. On this tubject had the honor of speaking and writing to you fir, in due time, but I am hitherto without the leaft answer. If the feezing of American citi. zens (" our citizens have been feized") has any reference to the arrest of the Kempers, I multin the first place declare, that according to my late information thefe Kempers are not America citizens, because when they fettled themselves in the Spanish territory, they became subjects of the king, and of course had lott their right a American cirizens; and in the fecond, that the arreft of these persons, according to a letter from Narchez, of the 8th Canber laft, published in the United States Gazette, of Philadelphia, va effected by negroes, mulattoes and Americancia tizens, who, no doubt, expected fome recompence, delivered them within the Spanish lines, hon whence it appears fome Spanish foldiers toth charge of to conduct them to Bason Rouge, k is true, that it has also been said, that a part of a company of cavalry, commanded by a certain captain Jones, had entered another part of the line and had conducted themselves in a violent and improper manner, towards two families; but should this account be true, I can affure you, sir, that the government of the United States shall receive due fatisfaction from Spain, the m. putation of whose government is too well estab. lifted, to believe it can in any manner be prive to, or approve of acts, as far beneath its character, as they are useless in their effects, Inc. dents of this nature often happen on the fronties of every country, and they only deferve attention when they receive the fanction of the go. veroment of the aggreffors, or when in fuch cases, due satisfaction is refused.

I have gone over, flep by flep, the article of the prefident's meffage which relates to Spain, and I have endeavored to prefere with esoder may give correct ideas on its nature and tendency. Having fulfilled this duty incumbent of my fituation, permit me to offer you, in the fentiments of high confideration, with which i have the honor to be,

El Marques de Cafa Yrajo. TAMES MADISON, Elq.

APPEAL.

The following interesting article has lately been printed in the German language and circulated on the continent. " England has not provoked the bloody contest which now extends over the whole continent of Europe; and if she has par tiently and silently endured so long the The rulent and unjust accusations heaped upon her by France, it is because she conceived it unbecoming her dignity to notice assertions destitute of proof, and conveyed in. terms of insulting, self arrogated superiority. At a moment, however, when her troops are about to join those of other nations, equally as herself outraged by the unjust menaces and aggressions of France, she conceives it was no longer prudent in her to delay exposing to all Europe, but chiefly to France itself, the undisguised, causes which have induced her to call forth the loyalty of her inhabitants, and the valor of her troops. These causes originate not in ambitious views on her part, or, as France would have it, in perfidious viola. tion of treaties, because those treaties were found to militate against her interests; but in the deep designing restless ambition of a man, whose soie occupation seems to be conquest, and whose every action testifies disregard to the common observance as mong men.

" When England, penetrated with a proper sense of the miseries a long and doubtful war had entailed upon her inhabitants, consented to accept even a disad vantageous peace, she prepared with fidell. ty to execute every article of the treaty. and the most undeniable proof of her sine cerity was given by a complete dismantling of her ships, and a general disbanding o her troops; all the warlike stores were sold without reserve, and even the barracks were unfurnished of every article of use or comfort. Such was the actual state of Great Britain a very few months after the definitive treaty of Amiens h led by the several parties - na us was England of any lace to the hoped for b ding the negociatio France sending ove immense force, bo ing, and which any er own part would e thrown on her defer definitive treaty of Amiens had been ratio fied by the several parties - nay, so unsuspicious was England of any impediments taking place to the hoped for blessing, that even pending the negociation, she concented to France sending over to St. Do. mingo an immense force, both in troops and shipping, and which any crooked poficy on her own part would undoubtedly have have thrown on her defenceless West

India possessions. " One point alone remained to be settled, the evacuation of Maits, a place of no importance to England, unless at war with France, but of incalculable magnitude once occupied by that restless power. To guard against the posibility of such an event, England required its neutrality to be guaranteed by both Russia and Austria! and world this arrangement could take place, she prudently refused to evacuate the fortress. France, on her part, pressed with suspicious impatience, the fulfilment of this part of the treaty of Amiens, and while she arrogantly and loudly exacted what she termed her right, she did not es ven attempt to disguise her own views on the independence of this impregnable island. All Europe has witnessed the successive encroachments of France on the rights of independent nations -every month annexed to her dominions some fresh accessions of dignity and power not only thereby merely aggrandizing herself, but weakening, to an alarming degree those states, from which alone a just and due balance of power could be expected. At no period of the history of France were ! aresources so immense as at the termination of last war. All Brabant, Savoy, a considerable part of Germany, were annexed forever to her crown. " Switzerland, Holland, and Pie I mont all Italy indeed, demanded only to be left to their own internal regulations, their independence could not injure France; their enmity could but lead to their own destruction. Such was the state of Europe, when with a wanton tyranny, unparalleled in the history of Europe, Bonaparte seized on all those nations, and imposed on them his own iron yoke. He did more; under the pretence of sending commercial agents to the powers with he had just signed a peace, he introduced engineers to take soundings of her ports, and plans of her coasts; then, and not till then, England took alarm; and when the wellknown mission of Sebastiana to Egypt was made public, what before had only been a strong suspicion, became at once indisputable proof to the nations of Europe. To, the mhabitants of France we submit it, could England do less than arm; her com me ce restricted and refused, her interior tampered with, the terms of the treaty virtually infringed, of every ex stence threatened, he had no alternative but al ject submission, or unequal war. She chose the latter and God has crowned her efforts to preserve her liberty and her honor. Let then the world at large judge, on while at the same time Frenchmen will do well to reflect, whether it is for their hope, or their happinesss, to support the co atinuance of a war, merely to gratify the inordinate ambition of one man, who sets at haught the lives and liberties of the Great Nation whose destinies be rules, provided their sacrifice is the consummation of his unjust and frantic desires, England so constantly accused of being the sole promoter of the war, so unworthily and unjustly charged with the perpetration of crimes fileign to the character stamped upon her great renown, scruples not to declare, that her sword will be sheathed the very first moment that France disavows the right of meddling with the political relations of neutral independent states, and confines herself to such limits as are compatible with the freedom of other nations; but while she continues to manifest her exorbitant pretentions, unfounded, unacknowledged, angland will employ with a lavish hand all gold, so much the envy of France, the by produce of her labor and her skill, to CHATHAM, that elegant and highly improved feat on the banks of the Rappahannock River, directly opposite the town of Fredericksburg, containing about eleven hundred acres, four hundred of which are in wood, and valuable timber, the reft in cultivation, and pleasure grounds-The hand in tillage is level, a confiderable part of it has been highly manured, and the whole of it well adapted to the culture of grafs, fmall grain, and Indian corn, as the crop now growing will arrest. The hoose and offices are of brick, and on a large and handforne scale, with a garden in front containing four acres, laid off with tafte and well planted with the choicest fruit trees, new in full bearing, and ornamented with forck trees and farubs of almost every description. There is on the effate adjoining the river, a griftmill built of free Rone, containing the modern machinery and two pair of stones, one of them French Burrs-It commands a large country col. tom, is well fituated for merchant bufiness, and has rented for five hundred dollars per annum ex. ciusive of all the grain of the farm hopper free, which is equal to three hundred doffars more,-There are all necessary out houses, for either con. venience or luxury, fuch as ice-house, springhouse, barn, flable, offices, &c. &c. With all thefe advantages and expensive improvements, this property is offered at a price which the lands alone ought to command. There are also fome valuable fifteries, and quarries of free flone on this effate.

Alfo, a tract of land generally called Clark's about two miles below Chatham, on the north bank of the Rappahannock river, and within view of the town of Frederick Burgh, containing upwards of four hundred acres. About one hunred and twenty acres of this track is Rappahan nock river bottom in cultivation, and is well a. dapted to Indian corn, finall grain, &c. the relidue is in wood, furrounding a height, which turnifices a beautiful feite for building.

Alfo, a tract of land in Stafford county, ad. jaining Stafford court house, containing upwards of twelve hundred acres. This is good farming land, and has feveral tenants on it.

Also, a tract of land in Westmoreland and Richmond counties, containing upwards of two thousand acres, on which there are also several tenants. These two last mentioned tracts of land will be fold in small tenements, or in entire tracts, as may best suit the wishes of purchasers.

Alfo, a tract of land called Boyd's Hole, confaining about one hundred and fifty acres, on the banks of the Potomac, in King George county, on which there are a comfortable dweiling house, flore and tobacco inspection ware house. Few fituations combine more advantages, it being an excellent fland for a flore, ferry and tavern, the two first of which are at present kept there, The houses have lately been put in good repair, and the baildings alone will rest for three bundred dollars a year. The land is good in quality, and the fituation abounds in fife oysters and wild

Alfo, a valuable Scite for a Mill, with to acres of Land adjoining, in King George county, and not far diffant from the last mentioned track.
